DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:
 - I. Claims 1-15, drawn to a method for manufacturing a PCB bonded to a heat sink, classified in class 29, subclass 840.
 - II. Claim 16, drawn to a method for manufacturing a PCB bonded to a heat sink, classified in class 29, subclass 843.
 - III. Claims 17-29, drawn to a method for manufacturing flex PCB, classified in class 29, subclass 829

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons: Inventions I and II are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require "a composition of the adhesive layer is being different from that second adhesive layer " (see claim 16, lines 7-10) as required by the subcombination invention II. The invention II has separate utility such as the second adhesive not being fully activated at a temperature used in the adhering the conductor layer to the bond film as required by the invention II (see claim 16, lines 8-10).

Inventions I and III are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require "a release sheet between a first bond film and a second bond film (see claim 17, line 2) as required by the subcombination invention III. The invention III has separate utility such as for manufacturing a flexible PCB.

Inventions II and III are related as combination and subcombination. Inventions in this relationship are distinct if it can be shown that (1) the combination as claimed does not require the particulars of the subcombination as claimed for patentability, and (2) that the subcombination has utility by itself or in other combinations (MPEP § 806.05(c)). In the instant case, the combination as claimed does not require "a release sheet between a first bond film and a second bond film (see claim 17, line 2) as required by the subcombination invention III. The invention III has separate utility such as for manufacturing a flexible PCB, etc.,

Because these inventions are distinct for the reasons given above and have acquired a separate status in the art as shown by their different classification, and the search required for Group I is not required for Group II or III, because of their recognized divergent subject matter, restriction for examination purposes as indicated above is proper.

2. A telephone call was made to Richard A. Fagin on 6/29/04 to request an oral election to the above restriction requirement, but did not result in an election being made. Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include an election of the invention to be examined even though the requirement is traversed (37 CFR 1.143).
